

Gender, Race and the Media

in Election 08:

What's next?

Join us for a post-election celebration (and/or commiseration). An informal reception/mixer will be followed by a panel discussion, featuring:

Jennifer Pozner

Women in Media and News

Naomi Ishisaka

One America

Lorena González

Latino PAC of Washington

B.J. Bullert

Center for Creative Change

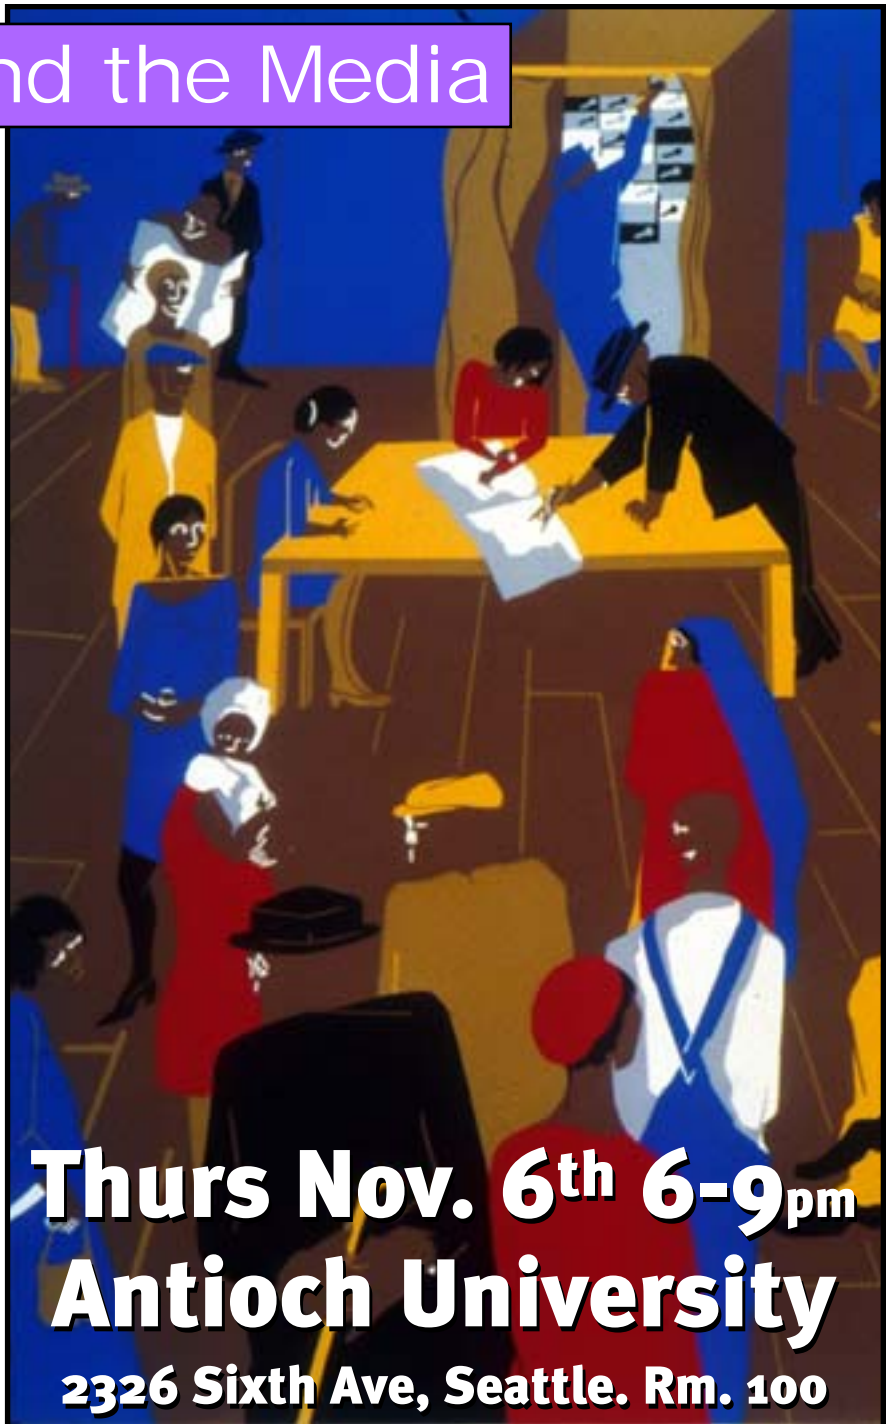

Cory Fisher-Hoffman

Prometheus Radio Project

Jan Strout

Reclaim the Media/Seattle NOW

Women Voters Project

Thurs Nov. 6th 6-9pm

Antioch University

2326 Sixth Ave, Seattle. Rm. 100

This year's nominees for President and Vice President have broken barriers of race and gender, and present American voters with truly historic choices. Through much of this campaign season, sexist backlash and racial prejudice have dominated and distorted media coverage of one of the most important moments in U.S. history.

Join Reclaim the Media for a post-election discussion on how the important issues of this year's monumental election played out, or got thrown out, in national news media. What went right and wrong, and how can we improve our media to strengthen our democracy?

Sponsored by Reclaim the Media with support from Reel Grrls, Seattle NOW, One America, Antioch University Center for Creative Change, National Women's Political Caucus of Washington, and the Latino Political Action Committee of Washington.

www.reclaimthedia.org

